

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Organization of Danielson's symphony orchestra is expected Friday evening of this week, when those who already have signed their intention of becoming members and others who wish to associate themselves with the orchestra are to meet in the selectmen's office in the town hall building.

Lester Wheeler, who has done the preliminary recruiting work said Wednesday afternoon that 22 persons already have come into the orchestra, but he hopes to have many others. Mr. Wheeler is especially anxious that at least two bass violin players, two cello players and another French horn (F) and clarinet (B flat) be secured.

Friday evening it is expected that committees of the orchestra will be appointed and consideration given to the matter of procuring a director. Mr. Wheeler makes it clear that the orchestra is not being organized for financial gain on the part of anyone. His ambition is to create a community orchestra that will include a large number of musicians, who need not necessarily be residents of Danielson. Musicians who are resident in any of the surrounding towns are invited to join. The idea is to have a symphony distances outside the borough lines on state highway routes, of which there are four that may be described as in use by through traffic.

Danielson has an artist in high finance. He tells of taking a roll to a pawn shop in a neighboring city and getting a loan of $3 on it. Then he took the ticket and sold it for $150. He neither expects nor desires to get the suit back. He was after money, as one of the unemployed, and figures he got as near the value of his suit as was possible under the circumstances. With the man who bought the ticket as a profitable venture, things may be different.

Arthur Gallup, who underwent a surgical operation at a Worcester hospital about a month ago, has returned to his home on Broad street. Mr. Gallup is steadily improving in health.

Miss Helen E. Aylward, who has been ill at her home on Academy street for the past ten days, was reported Wednesday as much improved.

There are several cases of special local interest in the list to be disposed of next week at the session of the superior court for considering criminal business.

County Detective W. E. Jackson of Williamstown was a visitor in Danielson Wednesday.

Two prohibition enforcement officers have been in Danielson making an inspection of some places that have been under suspicion of violating provisions of the prohibition enforcement act. The visit of the officers did not result in either seizures of intoxicants or arrests, however. The visitation and investigations were the first in Danielson by prohibition officers.

Michael Nead, Jr., remains ill at his home on Academy street.

Local Hebrews are making preparations for the beginning of the Hebrew New Year and numbers will be away in neighboring cities for services beginning Monday next.

Danielson men were at Woonsocket Wednesday attending the races being held at the track in that city.

A new arrangement has been worked out to prevent glass in the vestibule doors at the postoffice from being broken, as has been an occasional occurrence in the past. The lower part of the door glass is now covered by a section of sash dividing the upper and lower panels.

Vegetables worth hundreds of dollars have been raised and harvested in home gardens of employees of the Quinsigamond company during the past summer. Many of the vegetables are for winter use. The gardens were furnished by the mill company without charge.

Miss Anna Lajeunesse is visiting with relatives in Taftville for a week.

H. V. Chason of Fitchburg was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Wednesday.

Generous supplies of bituminous coal are being accumulated for their winter stock by some of the manufacturing concerns of the town.

Several motorists have made known their wish that brush obscuring a view of the highway at the bridge over the river in Attawapung be cut. Recently on account of this brush, on the easterly side of the state highway, there have been some close escapes from collisions between motor vehicles.

PACKER

John Wood and family have moved here from Plainfield and are occupying the house nearest the mill.

Mrs. Simoneau entertained twenty members of Whatsoever club and their friends at her home Saturday afternoon. Joseph Walsh has recovered from illness of a few days.

A new state traveling library is expected here in a day or two. Foxes are reported in the neighborhood.

80 Years Old - Was Sick - Now Feels Young After Taking Etonic for Sour Stomach

"I had sour stomach ever since I had the grip and it bothered me badly. Have taken Etonic only a week and am much better. Am 80 years old," says Mrs. John Hill.

Etonic quickly relieves sour stomach, indigestion, heartburn, bloating and distress after eating because it takes up and carries out the excess acidity and gases which cause most stomach ailments. If you have "tried everything" and still suffer, do not give up hope. Etonic has brought relief to tens of thousands like you. A big box costs but a trifle with your druggist's guarantee.

PUTNAM

When the superior court opened here Wednesday morning, Judge L. P. Wallbridge presiding, the case of Grace Tolofson of Brooklyn, N. Y., vs. John Laine of Brooklyn, Conn., was taken up.

In this action, the plaintiff is a child six years of age, and in her behalf an effort is being made by counsel for her guardian, Tolef Tolofson of Brooklyn, N. Y., who also happens to be her father, to have a judgment of $735 rendered in her favor in the county court for Brooklyn, N. Y., reaffirmed in Windham county.

During 1920 the child was injured when struck by an automobile operated by the defendant Laine, in Brooklyn.

Mr. Tolofson, in due time a judgment for damages against him was obtained and recorded in the New York court, but in the meantime Laine had disappeared from Brooklyn, N. Y., and his whereabouts were unknown for a considerable period until he was located in Brooklyn, this state, where he was part owner of a farm, which has been attached in the case to satisfy the judgment. It is hoped to have the case tried here.

When the case was called Wednesday morning Laine, the defendant, was not in court, but Attorney John G. Annala of Fitchburg, Mass., appeared in his behalf. Attorney Annala did not bring any credentials and this taken with the fact that his client was not in court led Attorney Charles E. Searls, representing the plaintiff, to question the good faith of the proceeding. Mr. Searls' remarks did not do much to help to have the case imposed upon.

There was a veiled suggestion during the proceedings that the Mr. Laine who is now held to be a resident of Brooklyn, this state is not the same Laine against whom judgment was recorded in this case in the New York court, but this is denied by the plaintiff's guardian, who asserts that the men in question are one in the same.

Mr. Searls stated to the court that the burden of proving the identity of the man did not rest on the plaintiffs and that what he was seeking was a judgment against the man now held to be a resident of Brooklyn, Conn.

After hearing what the attorneys had to say relative to the matter, Judge Wallbridge said he would reserve decision, while County Detective William Jackson of Williamstown was sent to Brooklyn, Conn., with a summons for John Laine that he might be brought to court and asked to swear that he is the man against whom the New York judgment was rendered in the case in question.

The case next called was that of George B. French vs. Janet C. Shepard, of Woodstock. In this case the plaintiff claims damages of $500, growing out of difficulties concerning what is known as the Shepard bungalow in the town of Woodstock.

The plaintiff alleged that on February 1, 1919, entrance to the bungalow in question was forced and a quantity of furniture and plumbing fixtures removed. The plaintiff claims to have owned the furniture removed.

Mrs. Mary E. French, mother of the plaintiff, was the first witness called. She told of having purchased the bungalow, furnished, from Mrs. Shepard, who is a grand aunt of the plaintiff. An evidence supplement her statement that she had purchased the cottage from Mrs. Shepard.

Mrs. Shepard, Mrs. French produced a deed executed in the office of a New York attorney signed May 2, 1918, in that city. When this document was admitted as an exhibit Attorney C. E. Searls, representing Mrs. Shepard, asked Attorney E. H. Johnson, counsel for Mrs. French, to inspect it and after carefully looking over the deed Mr. Searls declared it to be imperfect in that the date of its acknowledgment before the town clerk of Woodstock was omitted.

Mrs. French, continuing her testimony, said that she bought the bungalow, furnished, for her son who was suffering from incapacities resulting from overseas service during the World war. The price of the bungalow was made especially low, $1,000, and Mrs. French made an initial payment of $500 in $100 bills and later paid $400 more.

The misunderstanding, that later developed relative to the property and as to the ownership of the furniture became so acute as to result in the present court action.

State Attorney Charles E. Searls has notice that he will meet members of the bar for consultation in regard to criminal cases, to continue on the October term of the superior court at his office in this city tomorrow (Friday) from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., and that he will be at the office of Attorney Samuel B. Harvey in Williamstown for the same purpose Saturday of this week from 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.

Putnam learned with surprise Wednesday morning of the probability of Rev. Boynton Merrill, pastor of the Second Congregational church, leaving Putnam to become associate pastor of Old South church in Boston. While there were universal expressions of regret at the possibility of his leaving, there was also much rejoicing that such a young clergyman should be selected from among scores of candidates for the important place and the great many friends he has made since assuming the pastorate in Putnam point to the fact that he has received a call as another evidence of his unusual abilities and of his great capabilities as a minister. It is expected that Rev. Merrill will have an announcement of interest to make to the congregation at next Sunday morning's services.

Jeannette Vermotte, 7, is the latest child victim of an automobile accident in this city, but was not seriously injured. The little girl was knocked down in Main street, near the Court-house block, Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock by a car driven by Thomas McCabe of Pontiac avenue, Cranston. R. F. Jeannette, the police understand, stepped out from behind a standing car directly into the path of the McCabe machine, which was approaching at a moderate speed, but which could not be stopped in time to prevent the accident. The child was removed to the Day Kimball hospital. She suffered contusions and cuts on her head and her injuries were not regarded as serious.

Wednesday morning the police here received a report that a bicycle had been stolen from a shed at Mechanicville. A look was forced to get into the shed where the wheel was kept. Constable John Kennedy of the town of Thompson is investigating the theft.

PROTESTS RESTRICTION UNDER POOR DEBTORS OATH

Whiteplains, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Appearing on the verge of a breakdown, Lewis Gouverneur Morris, scion of one of New York's most prominent families, a descendant of a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and for three months a prisoner in West Chester county under the poor debtors act, told County Judge Young today that he had stripped himself of everything, including his gold sticks, but that he still belonged to a number of fashionable clubs calling for annual dues of $600. The dues, he said, had been given him by his wife.

Morris made this statement while undergoing examination regarding his financial condition.
